The Pahrump Library District expects all representatives and staff of the District to adhere by these guidelines outlined by the American Library Association and other related policies and procedures of the Pahrump Library District.

1.0 Introduction and Overview

Overview

What is strategy? According to John E. Gamble, Margaret A. Peteraf, and Arthur A. Thompson, in their 2015 book, Essentials of Strategic Management: The Quest for Competitive Advantage, “A strategy is a way of describing how you are going to get things done. It is less specific than an action plan (which tells the who-what-when); instead, it tries to broadly answer the question, ‘How do we get there from here?’ Do we want to take the train? Fly? Walk?” In short, a strategic plan provides an organization with a fundamental affirmation of the organization’s core values, strategic mission, and strategic vision while outlining the goals, objectives, and implementation measures the organization will attempt to achieve and implement over the strategic planning horizon.

Typically, a strategic plan includes three basic elements. First, the strategic plan is a recognition of the existing barriers an organization faces and the resources the organization has at its disposal to achieve strategic objectives. Second, the strategic plan is generally tied to an overall vision, mission, and a set of clearly defined objectives. And third, the strategic plan provides direction to the organization for the organization’s future planned initiatives focusing on providing information, enhancing support, removing barriers, and providing resources to different parts of the organization and key stakeholders who have an interest in the achievement of the strategic plan.

When evaluating and developing a strategic plan, five basic questions must be answered, including:

- Does the strategic plan give overall direction to the organization? The strategic plan should point out the overall path without dictating a particular narrow approach.
- Does the strategic plan realistically fit available resources with identified opportunities? The strategic plan should take advantage of current resources and assets while embracing new opportunities for growth and success.
- Does the strategic plan minimize existing and future resistance and barriers the organization currently confronts and may have to address in the future? The strategic plan should keep in mind that opposition and resistance to implementation of the strategic plan is inevitable. Good strategic plans should attract allies and deter opponents.
- Does the strategic plan reach those who may be affected, positively and negatively, by implementing the strategic plan? The strategic plan should connect the intervention with those who it should benefit while minimizing potential negative impacts to those impacted by the plan.

- Does the strategic plan advance the strategic mission of the organization? The strategy should make a difference on the mission of the organization while enabling the organization to achieve stated goals and objectives.

Beginning in mid to late 2025, representatives from the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District worked with faculty and staff from the University Center for Economic Development, part of the College of Business at the University of Nevada, Reno, to develop a new five-year comprehensive organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library, which is administered by the Pahrump Library District. This new organizational strategic plan, spanning the 2026 to 2030 five-year period, is designed to further expand and build upon the Library's status as an essential public service in the community by addressing identified organizational issues and various community and individual patron needs and wants. The critical elements of this new five-year strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District include a set of priority issues, a set of core values, a new strategic mission statement and strategic vision statement, and a set of strategic goals and objectives as part of the Library's implementation strategy.

This University Center for Economic Development technical report provides a comprehensive summary of the strategic planning work completed by Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District representatives during two strategic planning workshops held on September 7, 2025 and on December 4, 2025 in Pahrump, Nevada at the Pahrump Community Library and during subsequent follow-up discussions between Library and District staff and representatives and faculty and staff from the University Center for Economic Development. Section 2.0 of this University Center for Economic Development technical report presents a comprehensive summary of various socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics for the community of Pahrump and other relevant geographies along with a comprehensive community and organizational assessment completed by Library representatives during the first strategic planning workshop held on September 7, 2025. Section 3.0 of this University Center for Economic Development technical report presents a comprehensive summary and analysis of the results of a community needs assessment survey that was opened on August 11, 2025 and closed on October 10, 2025, the results of which were used to complete parts of the community and organizational assessment presented in Section 2.0 and to develop the critical elements of the new five-year organizational strategic plan presented in Section 4.0. Section 4.0 presents a comprehensive overview of the critical elements of the Pahrump Community Library's new five-year, 2026 through 2030, organizational strategic plan including a new set of core values, a new and updated organizational strategic mission statement and strategic vision statement, and a new set of strategic organizational goals, objectives, and actionable items that will be developed further as the Library begins implementation of the strategic plan.

The Pahrump Library District is responsible for the continued operation and maintenance of the Pahrump Community Library, located at 701 Easter Street in Pahrump, Nevada, including the continued development, administration, and implementation of various Library programs, resources, and services and administration of Library personnel. While separate references to the 'Pahrump Community Library' and/or the 'Library' maybe mentioned throughout this new five-year strategic plan for the Pahrump Library District, the Pahrump Library District is the official and formal organization responsible for all library operations and administrative functions.

2.0 Evaluation of Community and Organizational Characteristics

The evaluation of community and organizational characteristics for the town of Pahrump and for the Pahrump Community Library involved the collection and analysis of different socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics as well as the completion of several facilitated exercises completed during the Pahrump Community Library’s first strategic planning workshop held on September 7, 2025. Representatives from the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District completed several facilitated exercises designed to assess community, organizational, and cultural considerations, an examination of community and organizational ‘likes’ and ‘dislikes’, and the completion of a comprehensive Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats, or SWOT, analysis for both the community and for the Pahrump Community Library.

2.1 Relevant Socio-Demographic, Economic, and Housing Characteristics

The types of programs, resources, and services that public libraries provide are heavily influenced by the specific socio-demographic, economic, and housing conditions and characteristics of the community and region that the public library serves. Changes in these conditions and characteristics over time may also impact and change the types of programs, resources, and services that the public library might develop and deliver to community members and library patrons. As part of the development of this new five-year organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library, a series of socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics were collected and analyzed. Geographically, these characteristics were collected and analyzed for the town of Pahrump and for all of Nye County as well as for the neighboring communities of Amargosa and Beatty. Other geographies used in this analysis included the City of Henderson, the City of Las Vegas, the City of North Las Vegas, for all of Clark County, as well as for the state of Nevada as a whole and for the entire United States. 2.2 General Assessment of Community and Organizational Culture

As part of the general community and organizational assessment, workshop participants representing the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District were asked to complete a series of facilitated exercises. These exercises were generally designed to evaluate and identify key community and organizational cultural characteristics to build and sustain an organizational culture that facilitates and accelerates the achievement of organizational strategic goals and objectives while fostering a sense personal accountability needed to support strategy execution and ownership. This subsection presents a general summary of the general community and organizational assessment completed by workshop participants representing the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District. Workshop participants representing the Library and Library District were initially asked to answer three specific questions regarding community and organizational culture including: (1) If your community and/or organization was a person, what would it be like and why?, (2) If your community and/or organization was a car, what would it be like and why?, and (3) If a musical score was put to the daily activity of your community and/or organization, what would it sound like and why?

Figure 2.1 presents a word cloud summarizing the answers provided by workshop participants representing the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District for the question, “If your community and/or organization was a person, what would it be like and why?”.

Figure 2.1 – If your community and/or organization was a person, what would it be like and why?

Pahrump Community Library Strategic Planning Workshop
September 7, 2025

Workshop participants generally agreed that either female or male would appropriately represent the Pahrump Community Library. As for being either an introvert or an extrovert, representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District agreed that, as a default, the organization would likely be more of an introvert but that the organization, as a representative person, can also be an extrovert given certain situations. Generally, the Library and Library District strive to be politically neutral but with ‘multiple personalities’. The organization is welcoming to children and accommodating to adults, generally helpful and professional, while, at times, the organization can be a bit ‘stand off-ish’ in certain situations. Archetypes that would likely best represent the Library and Library District, as identified by workshop participants, include notable individuals such as John Wayne, Oprah Winfrey, ‘The Dude’ played by Jeff Bridges in the 1998 film The Big Lebowski, Robert Oppenheimer, and interior and ‘under the hood’, highlighting the need to further investment in Library programs, resources, and services and the overall operations of the Pahrump Community Library as demand for various Library programs, resources, and services continues to grow and as the community’s socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics continue to change and evolve.

Figure 2.3 presents a word cloud summarizing the answers provided by workshop participants representing the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District for the question, “If a musical score was put to the daily activity of your community and/or organization, what would it sound like and why?”.

Figure 2.2 – If a musical score was put to the daily activity of your community and/or organization, what would it sound like and why?
Pahrump Community Library Strategic Planning Workshop
September 7, 2025

Workshop participants representing the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District identified several artists, musical scores, and specific songs that would best represent daily life of the community and of the organization, highlighting the variability in the day-to-day operation of the organization and the variety of the Library’s collection of various programs, resources, and services. ‘Twinkle Twinkle Little Star’ and ‘Ring Around the Roses’, along with the theme music from the Indiana Jones line of films, were highlighted as appropriate themes and musical compositions for the community and for daily activity at the Pahrump Community Library. Low-key classical music, including compositions from Mozart and Vivaldi, alongside more whimsical, light-hearted, playful, and happy musical scores, were also selected by workshop participants as appropriately representative in describing organizational culture and identity. In general, workshop participants noted that the organization serves a wide variety of Patrons and individual Patron groups, making each day that the Library is open unique and, at times, somewhat challenging to effectively administer due to the diversity of needs and wants for different programs, resources, and services that the Pahrump Community Library is expected to meet.

2.3 Assessing Community and Organizational Likes and Dislikes

Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District who participated in the first strategic planning workshop held on September 7, 2025 were also asked to answer four questions regarding specific things about their community and about the Library and the broader organization that they generally like and appreciate and do not want to see changed over the next five years and regarding things about their community and about the Library and the broader organization that they would like to see improved or changed over the next five years. This specific assessment of community and organizational ‘likes’ and ‘dislikes’ is a way to identify initial actionable items that the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District might consider as part of this new five-year organizational strategic plan.

Figure 2.4 presents a word cloud summarizing the answers of workshop participants to the first question, “What do you like (or what we don’t want to change) about southern Nye County and your community?”, as discussed during the Pahrump Community Library strategic planning workshop held on September 7, 2025.

For the first question, “What do you like (or what we don’t want to change) about southern Nye County and your community?”, workshop participants noted several community characteristics including the community’s existing geography and proximity to the larger Las Vegas metropolitan statistical area in neighboring Clark County as a major characteristic that they like about the community. Workshop participants believe that the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District could take better advantage of by reaching out to and marketing the Library’s various programs, resources, and services to individuals who might live in the Las Vegas area but work in Pahrump. Additionally, workshop participants noted that Pahrump’s general proximity to the larger Las Vegas metropolitan statistical area means that area residents can access different goods and services that may not necessarily be available in Pahrump but that the community continues to maintain a largely rural and non-metropolitan ‘feel’ and identity. Workshop participants highlighted the area’s wide-open space, view sheds, ‘small town atmosphere’, and that community residents are friendly and take pride in their community as major parts of their community that they like and want to preserve.

Despite some differences, workshop participants highlighted the generally high level of cohesiveness that individual members of the community have and the willingness that people have to get involved and remain involved when addressing community issues. This also means that parents take an active and positive role in the development of their children, evident by the strong participation by parents that the Pahrump Community Library has observed in Library programs, resources, and services that are oriented toward families with young children. Over the past several years, workshop participants noted increased participation these types of programs, resources, and services and the Library has and continues to receive strong positive feedback from parents with young children. This level of engagement and participation is representative of the community’s overall cohesiveness and is a major advantage and opportunity for the Pahrump Community Library in generating support among community members for the continued expansion of existing and the creation of new programs, resources, and services that serve community needs and wants.

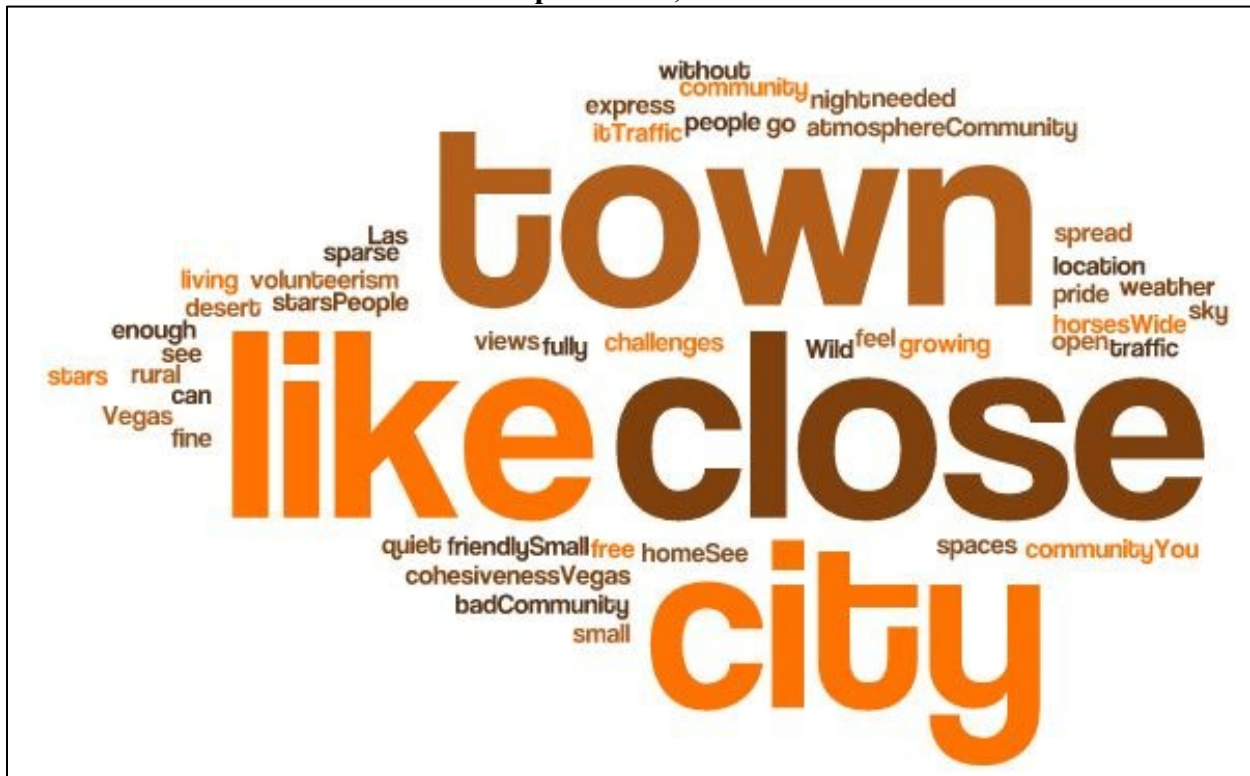

Figure 2.5 presents a word cloud summarizing the answers of workshop participants to the second question, “What do you dislike (or what needs ‘fixing’ or what would we like to change) about southern Nye County and your community?” as discussed during the Pahrump Community Library strategic planning workshop held on September 7, 2025.

One of the major issues identified by workshop participants in evaluating community dislikes, or elements of the community that needs to be addressed, is the concern over the loss of community that has occurred as the population of the town of Pahrump and the surrounding area has continued to grow and as certain socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics have changed as a result of that additional population growth. Between 2018 and 2023, the total population of the town of Pahrump has increased from an estimated 36,174 total individuals in 2018 to an estimated 45,811 total individuals in 2023, a net increase of 9,637 total individuals or and diversification of the area’s economic base and the need to focus on new business creation and attraction and existing business retention and expansion in areas that can elevate area incomes and hourly wages.

Figure 2.6 presents a word cloud summarizing the answers of workshop participants to the third question, “What do you like (or what we don’t want to change) about the Pahrump Public Library?”, as discussed during the Pahrump Community Library Library strategic planning workshop held on September 7, 2025.

As part of their response to this question, workshop participants representing the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District highlighted several features of the Library and Library District that they were particularly proud of, most notably including the recently completed full renovation of the Library’s physical building. Several workshop participants noted that the investment that has been made into the Library’s physical building will ensure that Library Patrons will continue to have a welcoming and modern facility and that this investment is a clear statement of the Library District’s commitment to serving the various needs and wants of the community, individual Patrons, and entire Patron groups. Workshop participants also highlighted several programs, resources, and services that the Pahrump Community Library has and continues to develop and deliver as a major strength of the Library and as a major reason why individual Patrons and entire Patron groups continue to rely upon the Library’s diverse build additional financial and non-financial resources that will enable the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District to complete additional physical improvements to the existing physical Library building, especially the improvement of digital and electronic infrastructure, to further expand existing and develop new programs, resources, and services, and to further support expanded professional development opportunities and training of the Library's and Library District's staff. Increased professional development and training of existing staff and the hiring of new personnel in key areas were among the most frequent areas of response as part of the evaluation of the Library's and Library District's existing characteristics completed by workshop participants.

Another area of needed improvement as identified by workshop participants was the need to increase and enhance the Library's and Library District's community outreach and engagement efforts. While workshop participants noted that the Library and the Library District already engages in a considerable amount of community outreach and engagement, workshop participants did note that Library and Library District representatives need to better target its community outreach and engagement efforts toward specific existing and potential strategic partners, to individual Patrons, individual Patron groups, and even to certain parts of the broader community. Even though outreach, engagement, and even strategic partnership requires the active engagement of individuals and other groups outside the Library, an improved understanding of broad community needs and wants would better help the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District customize its messaging efforts and the ability of the Library and the Library District to more effectively expand existing and create new programs, resources, and services that will better meet the needs and wants of the community, of individual Patrons, and individual Patron groups.

In addition to the four questions answered by workshop participants about community and organizational 'likes' and 'dislikes', workshop participants were asked to answer eight additional questions focused on assessing organizational culture and conditions. The responses to these eight additional provided by workshop participants during the September 7, 2025 strategic planning workshop are summarized here:

- Community Engagement and Connection. In what ways do you think the organization is meeting the needs of the community and/or region?

Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted that the Library is highly regarded throughout the community and among its various Patrons as a fact-based resource for understanding and learning about a wide variety of topics. The Library actively hosts, in partnership with various other organizations, a wide range of classes in addition to a diverse and extensive collection of books, Ebooks, and access to various databases. The Pahrump Community Library also provides the community and individual Patrons with access to computers and various photocopying, faxing, scanning, printing, and even notary services. A major community-wide need is access to entertainment and, while the Library is committed to life-long learning and educational programs, the Library offers a wide range of fun and educational events and programs for families with children, teenagers, young adults, and other demographic groups for need and want more entertainment options. The Pahrump

Community Library is also working on increasing its reach to the community's and area's older and aging population by helping individuals access the Library's programs, resources, and services and helping them learn about existing and new technologies.

- Impact on Clients. What do you believe is the most impactful service(s) the organization provides?

The biggest impact that the Pahrump Community Library has and continues to have on the community has been on the Library's various Patrons and different Patron groups. The Pahrump Community Library remains an important resource and access to valuable and in-demand information and is focused on helping individuals of all ages and backgrounds adapt to an increasingly changing digital world. Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District highlighted the Library's various children's programs. The Library remains an essential hub that helps improve broad literacy and helps foster a 'love of reading' and knowledge in young children at an early age. This fostering of a 'love of reading' and knowledge at a young age is an essential first step in ensuring that individuals become lifelong learners, especially in an increasingly digital world.

- Workplace Culture and Values. Do you believe our workplace culture reflects the values we promote? What are those values?

The Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District has made continual improvement and promotion of the organization's culture and values a priority and this is seen in the organization's strong commitment to the ultimate goals of promoting broad literacy and lifelong learning. The Library actively engages various age groups and other socio-demographic groups by, first, providing a welcoming and safe physical environment where individual Patrons can gain access to a wide range of programs, resources, and services in support of their own personal literacy and life-long learning goals. This further begins by encouraging Library and District staff and representatives to take an active role in helping Library Patrons, by remaining knowledgeable of the Library's existing and evolving collection of programs, resources, and services, and by remaining knowledgeable of the changing needs and wants of the community and the area as the area's own socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics continue to change over time. Several representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted that Library and District staff and representatives are encouraged to perform their duties and responsibilities with a sense of 'humble service', defined as exhibiting a high degree of selflessness in the performance of asked duties and tasks, putting the needs of individual Patrons regardless of their personal characteristics before their own, and serving the needs of the community, individual Patrons, and individual Patron groups without actively seeking personal recognition or reward.

- Sustainability and Long-Term Impact. What changes would you recommend to ensure the lasting impact of the organization?

The most frequent suggested changes recommended to ensure the lasting impact of the Pahrump Community Library, as identified by Library and Pahrump Library District representatives, was the need for more long-term sustainable funding that is not overtly influenced by short-term political characteristics. The investment in major capital projects and the continued maintenance and growth of the existing collection of various programs, resources, and services requires multi-year financial planning and the high volatility in the level of predictability of federal and state government public resources, along with uncertainty in locally generated and controlled resources, makes these long-term planning efforts difficult. From a programs and operational perspective, representatives of the Library and Library District noted that the Pahrump Community Library should actively expand existing and develop new programs, resources, and services that serve growing demographic groups within the community, including families with young children, teens and young adults, and the elderly. The Pahrump Community Library also needs to continue to modernize its operations as well as its physical assets, including increased investment in new technologies and, perhaps, even automation, as a way of better promoting existing digital resources, free staff to focus on other tasks such as programs, outreach, and collection development that directly support Patron needs, and enhance and support the Library's continued efforts to serve as an essential community hub.

- Effectiveness of Communication. How can we improve the transparency about organizational outcomes?

Workshop participants representing the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted the many ways in which the Library and Library District actively engage and communicate with the larger community and with individual Patrons and identified Patron groups. In general, workshop participants ranked the overall effectiveness of these various engagement and communication approaches as highly effective. Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District did, however, note that there is always room for improvement in the Library's and Library District's outreach, engagement, and communication efforts. Moving forward, and as part of the Library District's and Library's new five-year strategic plan, workshop participants noted that the Library and Library District should develop and implement strategies that are designed to reach potentially underserved members of the community and parts of the community that could benefit from increased and improved access to the Library's extensive collection of programs, resources, and services, especially more families with young children, teens and young adults, and the elderly living in the community that may be homebound and unable to access programs, resources, and services on their own. Workshop participants also highlighted the need to identify and work with other potential partner agencies and organizations, including other public sector agencies and educational partners, private sector firms in key and emerging industry and occupation sectors that are becoming increasingly important to the area's overall economic base, and even to different non-profit community-based organizations as a way of expanding the Library's visibility throughout the community and throughout the area.

- Partnerships and External Relationships. What partnerships or collaborations should we explore to amplify our impact(s)?

As alluded to the answers provided by workshop participants to the previous question, representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted that the Library and Library District actively engages with and continues to pursue a robust set of strategic partnerships and external relationships. At the same time, and while acknowledging that community and external partner relationships is an ongoing commitment and process, workshop participants noted the need for increased engagement with potential partners, especially among different public sector agencies, private sector firms, and different non-profit community-based organizations that the Library and Library District have not historically engaged with and as the community and larger area continues to grow and change because of new and emerging industry and occupation sectors that demand a different trained workforce with unique skills and capabilities. Working more with local area public schools, Great Basin College and other institutions of higher education, the Pahrump Senior Center, the Pahrump Valley Chamber of Commerce, individual local businesses, and different service-based organizations like the Rotary Club of Pahrump were a few of the many different groups the Library and the Library District could potential engage with to better enhance the Library's and Library District's level of community outreach and engagement. However, representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District made it clear that the Library and Library District must remain committed to its core mission of being a public library first and foremost and avoid the possibility of 'mission creep' or 'mission slippage' into areas outside the scope or purpose of a public library.

- Resource Allocation and Efficiency. Do you feel resources (time, money, staff) are being allocated effectively to maximize impact?

Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District agreed that the Board of Trustees and the District's senior leadership team have significantly improved the allocation and overall efficiency of the Library's and District's financial and non-financial resources. Members of the Board of Trustees and the District's senior leadership team have made the efficient and effective use a top organizational priority and continue to identify ways in which the Library and the District can continue to provide and expand existing programs, resources, and services and create and deliver new programs, resources, and services that individual Patrons and individual Patron groups continues to need and want. As part of this new five-year organizational strategic plan for Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District, representatives of the Library and the District will continue to idea ways to further enhance resource allocation efficiency and effectiveness without sacrificing the organization's commitment to the community and the area that the Library and the District serves and without sacrificing the commitment that the organization has and will continue to make to organizational staff and personnel.

- Feedback and Continuous Improvement. How can we better measure and track our effectiveness?

Community engagement and outreach, communication with Patrons, and internal communication between the organization and organizational staff and personnel has been and will remain a top priority for both the Pahrump Community Library's Board of Trustees and the organization's senior leadership team. Over the past several years, Board members and the organization's senior leadership team have implemented a wide range of feedback and communication approaches that has enhanced the way in which the organization gathers feedback and input and uses this feedback and input to make continuous improvement to the Library's collection of various programs, resources, and services and to the Library's and District's overall operations. Moving forward as part of this new five-year organizational strategic plan, the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District will continue to employ periodic surveys and annual strategy and planning meetings to ensure that the organization is focused on implementing and achieving the key elements outlined in this new five-year organizational strategic plan and to make routine improvements in the day-to-day short-term and longer-term operation of the organization.

Like the additional parts of this comprehensive community and organizational assessment, the questions regarding community and organizational 'likes' and 'dislikes' and the eight additional questions regarding organizational culture and conditions will be re-evaluated on an annual basis during the annual evaluations and updates that will be completed each year over the entire 2026 through 2030 strategic planning horizon. The results of these annual evaluations will be used to identify and complete possible revisions to different parts of the key elements of the Pahrump Community Library's new five-year organizational strategic plan outlined in Section 4.0 of this University Center for Economic Development technical report.

2.4 A Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats Analysis

Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District completed a comprehensive Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats (SWOT) analysis for their community and for the Library and District as part of the first strategic planning workshop held in September 2025. Strengths are defined as characteristics of the organization that give the organization a competitive advantage in achieving stated goals and objectives and in producing value for individuals who depend upon the organization and weaknesses are defined as characteristics that place the organization at a competitive disadvantage achieving stated goals and objectives, and inhibiting the ability of the organization to produce value for individuals who depend upon the organization. Opportunities are elements within the external environment that the organization could potentially take advantage of and threats are elements within the external environment that may derail the efforts of the organization over the next five years. Strengths and weaknesses are typically internal to the organization and exist in the present while opportunities and threats are typically external to the organization and may not have yet occurred requiring the community and the organization to develop a series of contingency plans. The following is a summary of the specific strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats developed by workshop participants representing the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District.

- Organizational Strengths: Major organizational strengths identified by representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District included the Library's and District's current physical assets, namely the Library's existing building, the Library's existing and significant collection of various programs, resources, and services, the organization's existing staff resources, and the generally positive relationship between the Library and the Library District and the wider community, including individual Patrons and individual Patron groups. Within the last year, the Pahrump Library District completed a near $1.0 million renovation and refurbishment of the existing Pahrump Community Library building. This transformative investment has positioned the Library in a competitive position to significantly improve the ability of the organization to positively serve and meet the growing and changing needs and wants of the community and of individual Patrons and Patron groups, which will further support the Library's ability to further improve and grow its existing collection of various programs, resources, and services. Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted that the Library's existing collection of different programs, resources, and services is unique within the community and unique among many public libraries in more rural non-metropolitan libraries located in other parts of the state. While workshop participants would like to see different improvements made to the existing collection, workshop participants noted that the existing collection successfully serves a diverse set of community needs and wants and enables the Library to further meet its overarching objectives of supporting individualized life-long learning goals and objectives of individual Patrons by focusing on improved literacy.

Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District also highlighted the organization's existing staff as a major organizational strength. Workshop participants noted that, for the most part, organizational staff are committed to serving Patron needs and wants in a professional, friendly, and welcoming manner and are highly knowledgeable and extremely capable in providing instant assistance to individuals who depend on the Library and its collection of various programs, resources, and services. While workshop participants noted the need for increased organizational commitment and even individual staff commitment to additional professional development training opportunities, workshop participants did note that the Pahrump Library District has significantly increased the availability of these professional development opportunities and that staff has, in-turn, increased their willingness and engagement in those opportunities when presented to them. This has significantly improved both individual and organizational levels of overall efficiency and effectiveness and has positively contributed to the continued improvement of the relationship that the Library and Library District has with the community, with individual Patrons, and with individual Patron groups. The community has noticed this improvement and has increasingly recognized the unique role that the Pahrump Community Library has in helping make Pahrump and the surrounding area a better community by supporting long-term literacy improvement and personalized life-long learning objectives.

- Organizational Weaknesses: Most of the organizational weaknesses identified by representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District focused on the remaining need to make additional financial and non-financial resources into improving and enhancing the Library's existing collection of different programs, resources, and services, the need to expand the Library's overall reach to underserved and in-need socio-demographic groups within and throughout the community, and the need to make continued investments into the continual improvement of the organization's staff, including volunteers and supporting entities. An immediate needed area of improvement, as identified by workshop participants, is a comprehensive modernization of the Library's existing cataloging system. The existing collection, which also requires a significant 'weeding', is needed to improve the ability of individual Patrons and individual Patron groups to better access Library programs, resources, and services and to improve the overall ability of Library and District staff to manage the collection and make ongoing longer-term improvements to ensure that the collection remains relevant as community needs and wants continue to grow and evolve. These investments will require additional financial and non-financial resources, including additional professional development and training opportunities for organizational staff members.

Workshop participants noted that increased professional development and training opportunities for staff and volunteers is essential, especially as the Library and Library District continue to modernize its internal operations and as the community continues to grow and change and associated demand for different programs, resources, and services also continue to grow and change. Part of this increased offering of additional professional development and training opportunities should also be focused on supporting the Library's and Library District's set of volunteers as well as working on developing an effective and active Friends of the Library group. Additional investments in creating new staff positions, additional volunteer opportunities, and reconstituting the Friends of the Library group will require additional financial and non-financial resources that are sustainable and can improve the Library's long-term continued growth. All of this, according to workshop participants, should be in service of meeting growing community demand for different programs, resources, and services with a focus on increased engagement and service of parts of the community that have been underserved. Workshop participants agreed that improvement in the Library's engagement with different underserved population groups, namely teens and young adults and the elderly, is vitally important to the long-term health of the community and is an area in which the Library and the Library District has struggled to make a meaningful and lasting impact.

- External Opportunities: While the continued growth of the community and the continued growth in the community's overall demand for various programs, resources, and services that the Pahrump Community Library already offers and will likely need to offer in the future could be a threat to the sustainability of Library and Library District operations, this continued growth and change is also a major opportunity for the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District. Increasingly individuals who live and work throughout the community and within the larger area are finding themselves in need of different programs, resources, and services that the Library and Library District already offer or could potentially offer if additional financial and non-financial resources were available. This is a major opportunity for the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District to become a true central community 'hub' of literacy and life-long learning, positively contributing to individualized goals and to the community as a whole as it further grows and diversifies and as technology continues to change and unfold in new and often unpredictable ways.

Successfully capitalizing on these opportunities will require the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District to innovate in the way it partners with external public sector agencies, individual private sector firms, and with different non-profit community-based organizations. The Library and the Library District, while maintaining its unique mission and status as a public library, may have to find ways to work with these other agencies, private sector firms, and other organizations in ways that the Library and Library District have not in the past. Improved, honest, and open communication between the Library's and Library District's leadership team and with representatives from these agencies, firms, and organizations should be focused on how existing and new partnerships can improve the way in which individual community members, individual Patrons, and individual Patron groups are served and how these individuals and groups can gain better access to a wider and more diverse set of programs, resources, and services. The setting of clear objectives as part of these existing and new partnerships is an essential first step in taking advantage of and capitalizing on these emerging opportunities to serve exiting Patrons and Patron groups while serving a larger and, at times, undeserved, population throughout and within the community and the larger area.

- External Threats: While representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District generally agreed that the Library and the Library District currently enjoy a relatively high level of overall support from the community, workshop participants generally agreed that a major external threat is the growing censorship movement of different programs, resources, and services that public libraries typically provide. To address this potential threat, representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted that is essential to continue to work proactively with local county and state government elected and appointed officials, other public libraries throughout the state and with the Nevada State Library, Archives, and Public Records Division of the Nevada Department of Administration, with different community leaders and organizations, and with the public at large to ensure support for the Library and the Library District and protection of the Library's existing collection of various programs, resources, and services. This effort should also include additional staff training on how to handle initial complaints and how to positively resolve concerns before larger issues of contention arise. Ultimately, the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District can address general threats of censorship by further engaging, communicating with, and listening to the public and the Library's and Library District's Patrons.

More broadly, Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District representatives noted that increased demand for existing and new programs, resources, and services could quickly overwhelm the Library's and Library District's ability to meet community and individual Patron needs and wants for different educational, entertainment, informational, and reference resources. Without access to longer-term and more sustainable financial and non-financial resources, it will become increasingly difficult for the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District to match increased levels of demand with increased levels of programming, resources, and services. This includes resources to support the continued growth of existing professional staff and volunteer levels and the ongoing professional development and training of organizational staff members. Potential short-term and long-term economic disruptions and potential downturns, another major disruptive event like a pandemic, and the continued ‘tightening’ of state and federal grant resources has already and could potentially limit the ability of the Library and Library District to sustainably fund current and future operations. Working proactively and collaboratively with other agencies and organizations, including the government of Nye County, the Nye County School District, and even other public libraries within Nye County, could enable the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District to successfully ‘leverage’ its existing set of financial and non-financial sources with the resources of other agencies and organizations to continue to serve and meet community, individual Patron, and individual Patron group needs and wants.

As part of this new five-year organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library, the Library and the Pahrump Library District will routinely evaluate each of these identified organizational strengths and weaknesses and external opportunities and threats and update them on an annual basis to ensure that the Library and Library District have the financial and non-financial resources to meet changing and growing community and individual patron needs and wants. The Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District will also take steps to actively take advantage of the opportunities already identified and that might emerge over the next five years and to guard against those potential threats that could derail the Library’s and Library District’s ongoing operations and its ability to continue to develop and provide a broad and diverse collection of various programs, resources, and services.

3.0 Results of the Community Needs Assessment Survey

As part of the development of a new five-year organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library, a comprehensive community needs assessment was developed and used to evaluate existing organizational operations and to identify potential areas of improvement in the Library’s processes, relationship with the community and with individual patrons, and in the existing collection of various programs, resources, and services. This comprehensive community needs assessment survey was opened on August 11, 2025 and closed on October 10, 2025 using both an online survey instrument and a physical hardcopy version of the survey that could be completed onsite at the Pahrump Community Library. A total of 119 surveys were collected and the results of this survey are presented in this section. The survey itself was divided into four sections with a total of 36 individual questions.

- General Information, 17 Total Questions
- Level of Satisfaction with Library Services and Facilities, 4 Total Questions
- Specific Evaluation of Library Staff and Facilities, 2 Total Questions
- Identification of Future Needs, 13 Total Questions

This section presents a comprehensive summary of the results of this community needs assessment survey developed and completed for the Pahrump Community Library. The results of this community needs assessment survey were used to develop specific elements of the Pahrump Community Library’s new five-year strategic plan.

As part of the responses collected for Question No. 26, 35 total survey respondents or 34.3 percent selected ‘Agree’ and an additional 32 total survey respondents selected ‘Neutral’. An additional 29 total survey respondents or 28.4 percent of the 102 survey respondents that responded to Question No. 26 selected ‘Strongly Agree’. ‘Strongly Disagree’ and ‘Disagree’ were each selected by three total survey respondents or by 2.9 percent of survey respondents that answered this question.

Figure 3.3 presents a word cloud summarizing survey respondent answers to Question No. 27, “What types of outreach and mobile services, resources, and programs (i.e. Homebound services, pop-up events, program and service delivery to area senior centers, etc.) would you like to see the Pahrump Community Library provide?”, as part of the 2025 Pahrump Community Library Community Needs Assessment Survey.

Several survey respondents expressed support for the development and delivery of pop-up events as part of different special events held in Pahrump. Survey respondents noted the opportunity for the Pahrump Community Library to customize future pop-up events thematically with different special events. For example, during the annual ICS and Silver State Chili Cook-Off, the Library could feature directed cooking classes or highlight local and regional authors who have published cookbooks. For the Pahrump Fall Festival, survey respondents suggested highlighting the works of local and regional authors and artists and, for the annual Pahrump Social Powwow, the Pahrump Community Library could highlight cultural characteristics of local and regional Native American, Tribal, and Indigenous peoples. Survey respondents also noted the need for increased homebound services to provide the area’s senior citizen population increased access to various Library programs, resources, and services. While Pahrump’s median age has declined over the past several years, the area’s overall median age remains relatively older when compared to neighboring communities and to the estimated overall median age for the entire state of Nevada. A relatively older population in Pahrump requires additional homebound and home delivery programs, resources, and services. As part the development of additional homebound services and pop-up events, several survey respondents suggested that the Pahrump Community Library should consider the development of a new bookmobile service.

A total of 41 survey respondents, or 40.2 percent of the 102 survey respondents that answered Question No. 28, selected ‘Agree’ as part of their response while an additional 19 total survey respondents or 18.6 percent selected ‘Strongly Agree’. Several survey respondents noted that proficient use in Microsoft Office suite applications is a primary requirement for various employment opportunities, including employment in several new area-wide and regional emerging industry and occupation sectors. A few survey respondents suggested that the offering of courses focused on the intermediate and more advanced usage of various Microsoft Office suite applications could be done in partnership with Great Basin College’s Pahrump Valley Center that already offers customized training, continuing education, and an Office Technology certificate.

Survey respondents noted several specific types of professional certification, opportunities, services, resources, and programs that they would like to see the Pahrump Community Library, including professional certifications in specific industries that are in high demand throughout the community. Among the various professional certification opportunities, services, resources, and programs identified by survey respondents, healthcare related certifications were the most common, ranging from quality and safety certifications (for example, Certified Professional in Healthcare Quality and Certified Professional in Patient Safety), healthcare administration and management (including Certified Professional in Healthcare Management and Certified Medical Manager), health information and informatics (including Certified Professional in Healthcare Information and Management Systems and Registered Health Information Administrator and/or Technician), and various specialized healthcare roles. Several survey respondents noted the importance of working directly with Great Basin College and even the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, as well as with Pahrump Valley High School. Survey respondents noted that the Pahrump Community Library can help market existing professional certification, opportunities, services, resources, and programs that these institutions already offer and even host classes and coursework through the Library during designated times.

Figure 3.8 presents a word cloud summarizing survey respondent answers to Question No. 36, “Please use the remaining space provided here to share any additional thoughts, ideas, comments, or suggestions that you would like to share with the Pahrump Community Library about its programs, resources, services, facilities, or other activities and operations not covered by the previous questions in this survey.”, as part of the 2025 Pahrump Community Library Community Needs Assessment Survey.

As part of their response to Question No. 36, survey respondents provided a number of different responses regarding their own additional thoughts, ideas, comments, or suggestions for the Pahrump Community Library about the Library’s existing programs, resources, services, facilities, and other activities and operations. Most notably among these various responses was a high level of praise and appreciation shared by survey respondents for the high-quality staff at the Library as well as the Library’s existing and diverse set of programs, resources, and services, including the Pahrump Community Library’s existing collection of various materials and extension set of programs tailored for different population groups that depend on and use the Library on a frequent basis. In general, survey respondents highlighted the Library’s existing staff, noting that the staff is friendly, approachable, helpful, professional, and very knowledgeable. Several survey respondents shared personal experiences of how Library staff provided them personal service to find a specific book or piece of reference material, provided one-on-one assistance with a technology-based question, or helped the respondent access a specific program for themselves or for a family member such as a young child.

Survey respondents, as part of their response to Question No. 36, also highlighted the Pahrump Community Library’s extensive and diverse collection, noting that the Library regularly had a specific book or piece of reference material on hand at the time that the survey respondent requested it without having to wait for it to be returned or for it to be brought in from an outside source. Several survey respondents also noted that, on those occasions that a particular book or piece of reference material was not on hand, Library staff helped the respondent to get the book or piece of reference material using the Library’s extensive set of databases and inter-library loan potential partners including the area’s public schools and with Great Basin College, to offer a wide range of classes and professional certification opportunities. Several survey respondents also noted that they would like to see more special events, directed activities, and even more clubs that appeal to a wider range of interests. Increased literacy and education programs, new technology and technology-training courses, special workshops and creative arts activities, community and social events, and different interactive programs such as live performances and gaming tournaments were a few of the specific suggestions provided by survey respondents as part of their general responses to Question No. 36.

4.0 Critical Elements of the New Five-Year Strategic Plan

Critical elements of the Pahrump Library District’s new five-year, 2026 through 2030, organizational strategic plan include a set of priority issues and a list of core values, a revised strategic mission statement and a revised strategic vision statement, and set of strategic goals and objectives with accompanying actionable items to help support implementation. These priority issues, core values, strategic mission and vision statements, and strategic goals and actionable items were developed by representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District during the two strategic planning workshops held in September 2025 and in December 2025 and during subsequent follow-up discussions with Library representatives. This section presents a summary of the critical elements of the Pahrump Library District’s new five-year organizational strategic plan.

4.1 Priority and Primary Issues for the Next Five Years

During the two strategic planning workshops held in September 2025 and in December 2025, and based on subsequent follow-up discussions with Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District representatives, five specific priorities and primary issues were developed. These five specific priorities and primary issues that the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District will seek to address over the next five years are:

- Priority and Primary Issue No. 1: Improved Community Engagement and Outreach

During each of the two strategic planning workshop and in subsequent follow-up discussions, representatives from the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District noted that the Library and District representatives have worked to develop a series of partnerships with other entities and organizations in the area, with each partnership designed to enhance the Library’s existing collection of various programs, resources, and services. While survey respondents to the 2025 Pahrump Community Library Community Needs Assessment noted that they felt that they were adequately informed about Library offerings, activities, and special events, representatives of the Library and Library District noted that there are several ways in which overall community engagement and communication can be improved. Notably, representatives from the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District noted the need for increased targeted use of the Library’s existing social media channels, an improved activities and special events calendar, and more direct engagement and communication with specific population groups who already use the Library. Library and Library District representatives also noted that increased engagement and outreach should focus on diversifying and expanding the Library’s existing collection of programs, resources, and services. For example, direct engagement with Great Basin College’s Pahrump Valley Center can help expand the Library’s offerings of various science, technology, engineering, artistic, and mathematics programming and resources, different vocational training services, resources, and programs, new professional certification opportunities.

- Priority and Primary Issue No. 2: Expanded Programming and Activities for Targeted Groups (Children, Adults, Families)

Based on the area's continually shifting demographic characteristics and the evolving characteristics of the Library's own patrons, representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District will seek to expand existing and create new programming opportunities and activities that service specific targeted groups, including families with children and adults. For families with young children, this effort may include programming opportunities and activities that parents and their children can both participate in, including new literacy programs that promote life-long learning. Crafting and a dedicated makers space, technology and media courses, increased club offerings, and even financial literacy training, developed and delivered in partnership with other area organizations, are a few of the ways in which the Pahrump Community Library could potentially expand its existing programming opportunities and activities for adults. Library and Library District representatives also noted the need for expanding programming, activities, and even services that directly serve the needs of the area's aging and elderly population. A service that was commonly identified as part of the 2025 Pahrump Community Library Community Needs Assessment survey that directly serves the area's aging and elderly population could potentially be the development of additional homebound delivery services or activities such as 'senior social hours', arts and crafts activities, and music and history discussions.

- Priority and Primary Issue No. 3: Increased Investment in Targeted Technology Areas

Increased investment in targeted technology areas includes both expansion of the Library's collection of technology assets that patrons frequently use as well as improvements to the Library's internal operations and organizational structure. Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District representatives noted the need to invest in targeted technology areas. Specific internally-focused targeted technology areas identified by Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District representatives included information technology support and troubleshooting, user support and instruction by assisting individual patrons and targeted patron groups with computer usage, printing, Internet browsing, and accessing digital resources, system administration, technology planning and training of Library staff, digital resource management, including management of the Library's existing electronic databases, Ebooks, and security systems. Externally-focused increased investment in targeted technology areas could potentially include expansion of the Library's existing technology assets that patrons frequently use, increased engagement with the Nevada State Library, Archives, and Public Records Division of the Nevada Department of Administration to address access and cost issues associated with utilization of different online databases, and improving access of digital and technology resources that the Pahrump Community Library currently offers individual patrons.

- Priority and Primary Issue No. 4: Organizational Improvements

Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District during the two strategic planning workshops held in September 2025 and in December 2025 and during subsequent follow-up meetings noted a number of specific organizational improvements that the Library and Library District would like to complete as part of this new five-year organizational strategic plan. Chief among these organizational improvements is finalizing an effort to consolidate and update existing Library and Library District policies and procedures. The Library's and Library District's current set of various employee policies and procedures are not currently housed in a single policies and procedures manual for Library and District employees and representatives. While the Pahrump Library District is currently working on a comprehensive update to these existing policies and procedures, periodic review and update of these policies and procedures will be needed to ensure that they remain relevant to the overall operation of the Pahrump Community Library. Library and Library District representatives further noted the need to properly communicate these policies and procedures to Library District employees and to provide, and in some cases require, that Library District employees and representatives engage in and complete period professional development training opportunities. The Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District will seek to identify these opportunities and provide Library District employees and representatives with the needed financial and non-financial resources to complete professional development training opportunities.

- Priority and Primary Issue No. 5: Targeted Improvements and Enhancements of the Pahrump Community Library's Collection

Targeted improvements and enhancements of the Pahrump Community Library's existing collection includes both an internal perspective and an external perspective in support of Patron needs and wants. Internally, representatives from the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted that the Library's existing cataloging system requires a major modernization effort and will require significant funding to develop and implement. This effort will also include the identification of additional needed financial and non-financial resources to support the acquisition of additional books and reference materials, database access and subscriptions, and should also be completed alongside increased investment in targeted technology areas that support Library operations and individual Patrons and Patron groups. Externally, Library and Library District representatives understand the changing needs and wants of individual Patrons and individual Patron groups and the community continues to grow and its various socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics continue to change. Expanding existing programs, resources, and services and creating and delivering new programs, resources, and services will be needed over the next five years to meet these changing characteristics and the changing needs and wants of Library Patrons. Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District representatives noted that this effort to expand existing and create new programs, resources, and services can be done and should be done, when appropriate, in partnership with other groups, agencies, and organizations with expertise in specific topic areas.

Over the next five years and as part of this new comprehensive five-year strategic plan, the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District will evaluate the progress that the Library and Library District has made in addressing these five priority and primary issues on an annual basis. New priorities and primary issues may emerge as internal and external conditions change and as new opportunities present themselves over the course of implementing the critical elements of the new five-year strategic plan.

4.2 Core Values of the Pahrump Library District

Core values are defined as the specific and articulated beliefs, traits, and behavioral norms that every single organizational member is expected to display in conducting the organization's functions and in pursuing achievement of the organization's stated strategic mission, strategic vision, and strategic goals and objectives. Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District developed four specific core values as part of this new five-year, 2026 through 2030, organizational strategic plan that will serve as the foundational expectations that the organization will have for all Library and Library District employees and representatives.

- Patron Focus: Representatives of the Pahrump Library District will strive to routinely anticipate and meet the diverse needs and expectations of the community that we serve and the users of our Library. Key aspects of this expectation include understanding user needs, orienting ourselves toward providing a positive and responsive experience and moving beyond simple transactional relationships, ensuring that all people, regardless of their background, have access to the Library's collection of programs, resources, and services, that we continue to adapt and be innovative to remain relevant to our changing community, and act as a community center by providing tools and resources that empower our patrons and users.
- Respect for People: The Pahrump Library District is committed to treating all individuals, including patrons and District representatives and staff, with dignity, courtesy, and fairness while ensuring equal access to information in a safe and inclusive environment. Demonstrating respect for people means valuing individual autonomy and patron privacy, providing a welcoming environment, conducting assigned duties and responsibilities professionally, politely, and courteously, and establishing and implementing clear and fair rules including a code of conduct that is based on the principles of mutual respect for our shared spaces and programs, resources, and services.
- Equitable Service: The Pahrump Library District is committed to proactively removing barriers and providing tailored resources so that everyone, regardless of their background, ability, or circumstance, can fully access and benefit from the Library's diverse and vast collection of various programs, resources, and services. Representatives and employees of the Pahrump Library District are expected to regularly identify and work collaboratively to dismantled biases and inequalities in policies and practices, provide access to Library programs, resources, and services that reflect our community's diverse cultures, experiences, and needs, work directly with all groups to understand and meet their specific needs, and ensure that service is provided based on a need to achieve fairness.

- Patron Privacy: The American Library Association staunchly defends any patron’s privacy as a fundamental right essential for intellectual freedom, asserting that public libraries must protect users’ personal information, including reach and search histories and borrowed materials, from unauthorized access by having strong and secure data policies as outlined in the Associations’ Code of Ethics and Library Bill of Rights. The Pahrump Library District expects all representatives and staff of the District to adhere by these guidelines outlined by the American Library Association and other related policies and procedures of the Pahrump Library District.

Like the other critical elements of this new five-year organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library, each of these four new core values will be evaluated on an annual basis. While it is unlikely that these core values will significantly change over the next five years, the definitions and associated expectations for each core value might be updated and revised as internal and external conditions change or as the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District identifies and pursues new objectives as part of its longer-term strategic mission and strategic vision. Ultimately, however, every individual who represents the Library and the Library District in any official capacity will be expected to know, understand, and live up to the expectations outlined in each core value and will demonstrate their knowledge and understanding of these expectations in efficiently and effectively serving the various educational, informational, entertainment, and even recreational needs and wants of the community, of the larger area, and of individual Patrons and Patron groups who visit and use the Pahrump Community Library on a daily basis.

4.3 Strategic Mission Statement for the Pahrump Library District

As part of the development of this new five-year organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library, Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District representatives developed the following new strategic mission statement that will guide the Library’s efforts over the next five years:

The Pahrump Library District provides broad access to information, programs, resources, and services to the community that we serve. Through the promotion of the Pahrump Community Library and the District’s collection of in-person and online and electronic programs, resources, and services, the Pahrump Library District actively aids individuals in developing their intellectual and creative potential by being a welcoming place for individuals to gather and use.

A strategic mission statement is a concise, overarching statement that defines an organization’s purpose, direction, and values and serves as a ‘guiding compass’ for its long-term goals, objectives, and actionable items. A strategic mission statement further defines an organization’s unique role among other similar organizations and its own scope of operations. The strategic mission statement provides a way to organization the specific aims and objectives of an organization in relationship to the stakeholders that it is designed to serve. The strategic mission statement developed for the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District for the five-year, 2026 through 2030, period emphasizes the role of the Pahrump Community Library as a primary source of information, programs, resources, and services for the people that live and work in Pahrump and in other parts of southern Nye County and the ways in which the Pahrump Community Library strives to meet various Patron and Patron group needs and wants. Representatives from the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted that the Library has and continues to be an important point of access to various resources and information and that the Library positively contributes to the intellectual and creative development of individual Patrons and different Patron groups. To ensure that the Pahrump Community Library continues to support the intellectual and creative potential and development of individual Patrons and different Patron groups, the Library itself must remain a welcoming place where individuals feel safe and can pursue their own literacy and personal development. Providing a welcoming space extends to the different organizations, agencies, and entities that the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District will seek to engage and partner with over the next five years as part of this new comprehensive organizational strategic plan. The Library and Library District will seek out new partners and continue to work with existing partners to further expand the Library's existing collection of various programs, resources, and services that share a similar mission of positively contributing to the intellectual and creative development of the people of Pahrump and any individual Patron and individual Patron group.

While the Pahrump Community Library's new strategic mission statement is unlikely to significantly change over the next five years, this strategic mission statement will be evaluated on an annual basis to ensure that the mission statement, itself, reflects the Library's identified role in the community and that specific goals and objectives outlined in this new five-year organizational strategic plan remain aligned with the mission statement. Continued development of additional clarity and context of this strategic mission statement, and even parts of the strategic mission statement itself, might change and evolve as the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District encounters new opportunities and new challenges in either or both parts of its internal and external environment.

4.4 Strategic Vision Statement for the Pahrump Library District

A strategic vision, as part of any five-year strategic plan, is a long-term and forward-looking statement that defines where an organization aspires to be and what it hopes to accomplish in the future. Because of this, the strategic vision is a guide for the organization's strategic planning and decision-making, including the development, implementation, and achievement of specific strategic goals and objectives. Any strategic vision should be future-oriented and focused on what the organization wants to achieve at the end of its current five-year strategic planning horizon. The strategic vision should also be inspiring and ambitious, creating a sense of purpose for the organization and for the organization's various partners and stakeholders, clear and concise, being easy to understand and communicate, and actionable, providing a foundation for developing and implementing concrete strategies and implementation measures. As part of the two strategic planning workshops held in September 2025 and in December 2025 and in subsequent follow-up communications, representatives of the representatives from the Pahrump

Community Library and the Pahrump Library District developed the following new strategic vision statement as part of the Library's new five-year, 2026 through 2030, organizational strategic plan:

Over the next five years, the Pahrump Library District is committed to self-empowering individual patrons by actively improving their own literacy. The Pahrump Library District is committed to supporting all types of literacy in our community, including foundational and traditional literacy, modern and technical literacy, subject-specific literacy, and cognitive and social literacy.

Personal literacy is essential as it is the first critical step in unlocking an individual's personal, economic, and societal growth by enabling individuals to read, write, and comprehend, leading to better academic success, improved job opportunities, enhanced personal physical and mental health, stronger positive community engagement and participation, and greater personal independence. Enhanced literacy of all types is the foundation for lifelong learning, critical thinking, and effective communication in an increasingly complex world.

The first part of this new strategic vision statement, serving as the core vision statement, is focused on the long-term objective of enhancing overall literacy rates across the community and among individual Patrons and individual Patron groups that depend upon the Pahrump Community Library. As the community continues to grow and as the community's existing socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics continue to change, enhanced focused on various types of literacy, including foundational and traditional literacy, modern and technical literacy, subject-specific literacy, and cognitive and social literacy, is becoming increasingly important to ensure that individual Patrons and individual Patron groups can continue to develop their own intellectual and creative potential as highlighted in the Library's and Library District's strategic mission statement as outlined above. While other organizations, agencies, and entities that already operate in the community, for example local area public schools and even institutions of higher education such as Great Basin College, are also supportive of individual intellectual and creative potential development through enhanced literacy, a public library's efforts differ by focusing on self-empowering efforts as opposed to formal instruction. This emphasis on self-empowerment is a core part of the Pahrump Community Library's and Pahrump Library District's new strategic vision statement.

The second part of the Library's and Library District's new strategic vision statement outlines the desired outcomes that the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District hopes to create by focusing on enhanced and self-empowered literacy improvement throughout the community and throughout the area. Representatives from the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted that enhanced personal literacy, across all types as outlined in the strategic vision statement, can lead to improved job opportunities for individuals, enhanced personal physical and mental health, strong community engagement and participation, and greater personal independence. As the community's and area's population continues to grow and as the area's overall socio-demographic, economic, and housing characteristics continue to change as a result of broader economic development and diversification efforts, enhanced literacy across all types is vital in ensuring that individual Patrons and individual Patron groups remain competitive and part of the broader community.

Like the other key elements of this new five-year organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library, the new strategic vision statement will be evaluated on an annual basis to ensure that strategic goals, objectives, and associated actionable items remain aligned with the overarching objectives of the strategic vision statement and that the articulated elements of the strategic vision statement remain part of the Library's and the Library District's long-term objectives. Like the strategic mission statement, continued development of additional clarity and context of this strategic vision statement, and even parts of the strategic vision statement itself, might change and evolve as the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District encounters new opportunities and new challenges in either or both parts of its internal and external environment.

4.5 Strategic Goals and Objectives for the Pahrump Library District

Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District developed a set of several specific strategic goals divided into six general areas as part of this new five-year organizational strategic plan. Each individual SMART goal is designed to be specific (what will be achieved and where organizational efforts will be focused), measurable (how progress will be measured), attainable (how the goal fits available resources), relevant (that it is important for the organization to achieve the stated goal), and time-framed (when each goal is to be completed and achieved). 4.6 Elements of Implementation, Formal and Informal Mandates and Exiting and Potential Partners Successful implementation of this five-year, 2026 through 2030, organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District will be predicated on the Library’s and Library District’s ability to successfully translate the key elements outlined in this strategic plan, including the priority and primary issues, core values, strategic mission and vision statements, and identified strategic goals and objectives, into meaningful action. To accomplish this, the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District must consider and incorporate a broad set of formal and informal mandates into day-to-day actionable items and work to leverage its existing resources in productive ways with the resources of existing and potential partner agencies, private sector firms, and non-profit community-based organizations. This subsection identifies those formal and informal mandates most relevant to implementation of this new five-year organizational strategic as identified by representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District and the existing and potential future partners that the Library and the Library District could potential engage with as part of its larger implementation efforts.

4.6.a Formal and Informal Mandates

Formal mandates as defined as those parts of the Nevada Revised Statutes, specific federal, state, and local government laws and regulations, even state and federal court decisions that have a direct and measurable impact on organizational functions and processes. Informal mandates are those individual and collective stakeholder expectations and needs of the public and other entities that the organization serves that have either a direct or indirect impact on the decisions that an organization makes when determining how financial and non-financial resources are expended in support of an organization’s mission and vision and in achievement of organizational strategic goals and objectives.

As a public library, the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District must consider and abide by a number of critical formal mandates, including various chapters and parts of the Nevada Revised Statutes and the Nevada Administrative Code, as well as the Pahrump Library District’s own approved and enforced policies and procedures. This includes, for example, Nevada Revised Statute Chapter 379 Public Libraries, parts of Nevada Revised Statute Chapter 379 State Library, Archives, and Public Records, and other relevant chapters including, but not necessarily limited to, Nevada Revised Statute Chapter 233 Nevada Equal Rights Commission, Nevada Revised Statute Chapter 239 Public Records, Nevada Revised Statute Chapter 241 Meetings of State and Local Agencies, Nevada Revised Statute Chapter 281A Ethics in Government, and Nevada Revised Statute Chapter 388 Public Works. As a public library, the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District strives to ensure that Library and Library District employees and representatives comply with the formal expectations laid out in the American Library Association’s (ALA) American Library Code of Ethics and even the guidelines laid out by the Association for Rural & Small Libraries (ARSL). Internal to the Pahrump Library District, the Library District has established guidelines, policies, and procedures covering the continued development, administration, and delivery of the Pahrump Community Library’s existing collection of various programs, resources, and services, the expectations for Library and Library District staff and representatives including expectations for training and professional development, and how the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District strives to meet the literacy and life-long learning goals and objectives of the community, of individual Patrons, and individual Patron groups.

Informally, representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District noted a number of unwritten but equally important mandates that the Library and the Library District strives to live up as part of the continued development, administration, and delivery of various programs, resources, and services. These community-driven, and even individual Patron and individual Patron group driven informal mandates, include a Library and Library District staff that is professional, welcoming, helpful, and committed to serving the various needs and wants of the community, of individual Patrons, and individual Patron groups. Library and Library District staff and representatives are expected to be knowledgeable about both individual needs and wants and about the changing and evolving needs and wants of the entire community as the community and surrounding area continues to grow and change in-terms of its various socio-demographic, economic, and even housing characteristics. This knowledge base also includes a growing knowledge of changing technologies and the Library and the Library District is expected by the community to be a central source of information and even training for these new technologies.

The community, individual Patrons, and even individual Patron groups also expect that the Pahrump Community Library's existing physical space remain a welcoming and safe space for individuals and groups of individuals of all ages, ranging from families with young children to teens and young adults to the elderly. In addition to the Pahrump Community Library's physical space being welcoming and safe, the community and existing users of the Library expect that the Library itself be a place where various needs and wants, including entertainment, educational, informational, and even social interaction needs and wants, are routinely met and that individual staff members demonstrate a legitimate interest in helping meet those various, specific, and often changing needs and wants in a timely and professional manner. Underscoring these specific informal mandates and expectations is the further expectation by the community, by individual Patrons, and by individual Patron groups that the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District actively, efficiently, and effectively communicate and engage with the community on a broad and individualized basis. The community and individual Patrons and Patron groups want to be informed and kept updated about various programs, resources, and services and even about special activities and events that the Pahrump Community Library hosts. These expectations for proactive, efficient, and effective communication should be met in ways that demonstrate how the Pahrump Community Library can serve individualized and personal needs and wants for various demographic groups, again ranging from families with young children to teens and young adults to the elderly. Working proactively with existing and potential new stakeholders and partners, including other public sector agencies, individual private sector firms, and different non-profit community-based organizations, can enhance the Library's and Library District's ability to meet these broad community outreach, engagement, and communication expectations.

4.6.b Existing and Potential Partners

As has been noted as different parts of this new five-year organizational strategic plan for the Pahrump Community Library and for the Pahrump Library District, continued engagement with existing external partners and stakeholders and the development of new potential partnerships will be an essential element of the Library's and Library District's efforts to effectively implement and achieve the key elements of this strategic plan. During the first organizational strategic planning workshop for the Pahrump Community Library and for the Pahrump Library District held on September 7, 2025, representatives of the Library and the Library District were asked to identify different existing and potential public sector, private sector, and non-profit community-based agencies, firms, organizations, and groups that could potentially assist the Library and the Library District in achieving and completing key elements of this new five-year organizational strategic plan. The resulting list of existing and potential partners and stakeholders can be sorted into four general categories, each of which could potentially assist the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District create new resources, attract new resources, retain existing resources, and expand existing resources. These four general categories include (1) various agencies, firms, and organizations focused on education and even workforce development, (2) other public sector government agencies at either the local or state level, (3) various private sector firms or related organizations, and (4) other organizations with a larger regional, statewide, and even national reach.

For those various agencies, firms, and organizations specifically focused on education and even, more specifically, workforce development, workshop participants identified several existing and potential partners and stakeholders that the Library and Library District should at least consider engaging as part of the Library's and Library District's efforts to implement and complete specific key elements of this new five-year organizational strategic plan. For example, workshop participants highlighted the unique opportunities that engagement with both Great Basin College's Pahrump Valley Center and University of Nevada Cooperative Extension through Extension's Nye County Pahrump Office presents the Library and Library District with alongside increased engagement and partnership with local area public schools and the broader Nye County School District. Workshop participants also noted, for example, that the Nevada Governor's Office of Economic Development Individual Career Mapping (ICM) program provides public libraries access to a wide variety of digital resources with the aim of enhancing labor market literacy and facilitating access to industry-recognized credentials.

Further and increased engagement with various other public sector government agencies, at both the local government and state government levels, is vital to the overall success that the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District will strive to have over the next five years as it moves forward with implementation of the various key elements outlined in this new five-year organizational strategic plan. Among the most important and most relevant other public sector local and state government existing and potential partners to this success is the government of Nye County and the Nye County School District, including the elected representatives of both the Nye County Board of County Commissioners and the Nye County School District Board of Trustees. This also includes, in addition to the Nevada Governor's Office of Economic Development as referenced above, the Nevada State Library, Archives, and Public Records Division of the Nevada Department of Administration. As mandated by Nevada state law, the Nevada State Library, Archives, and Public Records Division provides public libraries like the Pahrump Community Library with a range of unique resources, including information and reference services, library planning and development resources, and specific program development and implementation support, that the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District could potentially take better advantage of as part of this new five-year organizational strategic plan.

One set of potential partners and stakeholders that representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District would like to see better engagement with over the next five years as part of this new organizational strategic plan is enhanced and more one-on-one direct engagement with different private sector firms. Increased engagement in different business organizations such as the Pahrump Valley Chamber of Commerce is one way in which the Library and the Library District could more effectively engage the community's and larger area's private sector. This effort should also include individual service-based organizations, like the Pahrump Rotary Club, and other organizations with direct ties to the private sector such as the Valley Electric Association, Inc and Great Basin Water Company. Representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District also noted individual industry sectors and individual firms currently located and operating throughout the community as key potential partners. These industries and firms include local area television and radio stations, local area hotel and casino resort properties, construction and land development companies, and firms in new and emerging industry sectors that could become major drivers of local and regional economic activity and employment.

More generally, representatives of the Pahrump Community Library and the Pahrump Library District identified a number of other potential partners and stakeholders, including different foundations and non-profit community-based organizations, that could support the efforts of the Library and Library District to expand its pool of available financial and non-financial resources and effort to expand the Library's and Library District's existing collection of various programs, resources, and services. Workshop participants noted a number of specific foundations and other organizations, such as the Dollar general Youth Literacy Grant, the Laura Bush Library Book Foundation, and the Snap Dragon Book Foundation, as potential sources of additional resources. Professional associations such as the American Library Association and Association for Rural & Small Libraries could be potential sources of additional financial and non-financial resources and important advocates for the continued work that the Pahrump Community Library and Pahrump Library District does in service of community, individual Patron, and individual Patron needs and wants. Even more local or regional organizations, such as NyE Communities Coalition, that works across Nye, Esmeralda, and Lincoln counties in central and southern Nevada, could be valuable partners as part of the Pahrump Community Library's and Pahrump Library District's efforts to implement various key elements of this new five-year organizational strategic plan.
